

This is a Forest Ranger. Sometimes Forest Rangers are called Park Rangers or Foresters. Their job is to take care of the trees, animals, lakes, and picnic and camping areas in forests and parks. They enjoy working outdoors, and in natural environments, and love to answer questions about forests, trees and animals. Sometimes they climb up high towers, like the one here, so they can see the forested areas more clearly. Because trees can burn very easily and quickly, Forest Rangers must make sure that campfires are always extinguished, so that a large fire does not start. If they climb up the tower, and see that a fire has started, they can call the Fire Department to come and put the fire out.
